

Energy: What the World Needs Now

by Terry M. Gray and Anthony K. Rappé (aka G&R) is an electronic textbook for the energy topics in Chemistry 103 (Chemistry in Context) at Colorado State University at a cost of only $9.99.

<http://energywhattheworldneedsnow.com>

Energy: What the World Needs Now was originally written as an iBooks textbook for the Apple iPad. This version of the book is recommended and all of the interactive features are available. This version can also be read in iBooks on Mac OSX 10.9 Mavericks although some of the interactive features are not available. The link for the book in the iBookstore is

<https://itunes.apple.com/us/book/energy/id719079455?mt=13>

An Amazon Kindle version of Energy: What the World Needs Now has also been published. Kindle Reader can be downloaded for almost any device: Windows PC, Macintosh, iPads, iPhones, iPod touch, Android tablets and phones, etc. (<http://www.amazon.com/gp/feature.html?docId=1000493771>) The link for the book in the Kindle bookstore is <http://www.amazon.com/Energy-What-World-Needs-Now-ebook/dp/B00HNG563K>

TABLE OF CONTENTS

1. Energy Is Everywhere
2. Feeling the Heat
3. Feeling the Heat—Globally
4. Where Does Energy Come From?
5. The Anatomy of a Power Plant
6. Fossil Fuels
7. Nuclear Power
8. Renewable Energy
9. Conservation & Efficiency: “The Fifth Fuel”
10. How Much Does Energy Cost?
11. Batteries & Fuel Cells
12. A Global Perspective on Energy Growth
13. The Problem of CO₂
14. Hope for the Future

Once you purchase the textbook it is associated with your iTunes store account or your Kindle account and you can access it from any device that is associated with that account. If you set up a public computer in the library or in a computer lab to access your accounts, make sure that you log out of that account before you leave the computer. Purchases at the iBookstore or at the Kindle store can be made via credit card or via iTunes gift cards or Amazon Kindle gift cards. iTunes gift cards (and possibly Amazon Kindle gift cards) can be purchased at RamTech.

Some of the interactive resources in the iPad version that are not in the Kindle version may be available at the book web site at <http://energywhattheworldneedsnow.com>